

Author's Biography: Barbara A. Fanson

Graphic Designer and Author Barbara Fanson has written over 30 books, some traditionally published and some self published. This is her first historical fiction book.

While studying graphic design at Fanshawe College, she was the editor of the student newspaper Interrobang.

After working a few years in the print communications industry, she wrote Producing a First-Class Newsletter, published by Self-Counsel Press. Then, she wrote Start & Run a Desktop Publishing Business, also published by Self-Counsel Press.

While a professor for Seneca College, she wrote over 30 step-by-step computer books specializing in desktop publishing software programs such as Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator, InDesign, Microsoft Word, etc. Since the publishing company did not want to get involved with computer books, she self-published them, selling about 100 a month at several colleges.

She grew up in Smithville, 12 km from Fulton, where her father grew up.

Other books by Barbara Fanson:

Producing a First-Class Newsletter, published by Self-Counsel Press.

Start & Run a Desktop Publishing Business, published by Self-Counsel Press

Headlines for Promotions, published by Sterling Education Centre

From Desktop to Book Shop, published by Sterling Education Centre.